Clay's Notes

Bob Quigley's Half Dun PMD cripple is a guide's best friend during any PMD hatch. It imitates those flopping on the surface emerging PMD's you see when it's hot. If spinners are around, it kind of looks like them as well. This fly floats great, is easy to see, is tied on a strong hook and gets eaten. What more do you need?

I don't have a tying recipe for this pattern but if you can buy one you can deconstruct it or just analyze it and come up with a material list. Good luck.
